

Experimental Results

1. Tension variability of the system is sufficient.

The absolute mean residual is smaller than observed in human index finger muscles.

Laine, Christopher M., Francesco Negro, and Dario Farina. "Neural correlates of task-related changes in physiological tremor." Journal of neurophysiology 110.1 (2013): 170-176.